BOARDS AND COMMITTEES HANDBOOK INTRODUCTION

The Government of Yukon is committed to ensuring representative appointments to government Boards and Committees. By serving on one of the Yukon government's boards and Committees, residents can play an important role in Yukon affairs.

Members of the public are encouraged to apply on their own behalf, or to nominate someone else to serve on a government board or committee. Nomination/application forms are available from territorial agents, Government of Yukon administration buildings throughout the territory, municipal governments, First Nation offices, and community libraries. A sample form is included in this handbook.

The Boards and Committees Secretariat maintains an up-to-date record of the membership of each board and committee. For additional information, contact the Secretariat at 667-8418 (toll free 1-800- 661-0408, local 8418). The boards and committees listed in the handbook are those that are:

established by statute (some must be appointed, others may be appointed); established by Cabinet or by a Cabinet Minister; and comprised of members appointed either by Cabinet or by a Cabinet Minister.

Excluded from the handbook are boards that are:

- short-term, task oriented working groups;
- appointed by Government of Yukon officials;
- joint government/industry and/or labour bodies; or
- intergovernmental and interdepartmental coordinating bodies composed entirely of members of the public service.

The level of activity varies from board to board. Some are very active and play a major role in Yukon's affairs while others meet infrequently on an as required basis. Each entry in the handbook contains general information on how often a board meets as well as a contact telephone number from which further information on the level of activity may be obtained.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

Entries in the handbook contain the following information:

LEGISLATIVE AUTHORITY: name of the legislation that establishes the board or committee.

DEPARTMENT OR AGENCY: this refers to the Yukon government department or agency that co-ordinates, serves or directs the work of the board or committee.
